

Whitney CAPPS

People who hear Whitney speak often say the same thing, "she's just so real." Whitney hopes that sharing her struggles and failures will point her listeners to God. Whitney responds, "My failures magnify His grace and goodness. Why hide what God uses for His glory?"

Whitney shares familiar texts with Believers in hopes that they will be challenged to think about old passages in new ways. "I hope we look beyond what we think we know about a particular passage, and let the Spirit reveal new insights for the journey ahead."

Similarly she hopes that Seekers who have been turned off by too much "church talk" will find her candor and honesty attractive enough to take another look at the God of Scripture.

Inviting Whitney to speak at your event will be a breath of fresh air. It will be a time that Believers and Seekers alike will enjoy and be changed by.

Whitney and her husband Chad are raising their three boys, Cooper, Dylan and Ryder just outside Atlanta, Georgia. Additionally, Whitney works from home consulting for the corporate office of Chick-fil-A.

Dear friends,

Doesn't it make you sad that "religion" has such a negative connotation in our society? Religion shouldn't be a bad word. It shouldn't conjure images of hate, violence or bigotry, but it does.

It should however suggest a certain sense of radicalism. The Christian life is radical - radically remarkable, radically difficult, and radically life-changing. I hope the messages I share encourage listeners to pursue a life of radical Christianity.

Religion should also make us think of church - the Church. I believe the Church is God's agent in sharing the hope of humanity - Christ. I want to partner with your church in advancing the Kingdom in your community.

Blessings!
Whitney

Whitney's Topics Include . . .

The Most Wonder-full Time of the Year

For Such a Time as This

Thirsty? Finding Refreshment With A Cool Glass of Living Water

Declaration of Dependence: Helping Women Wage War Against Culture

It's Your Serve: Finding Identity in Serving Others

Who's Your Daddy? Claiming Your Covenant Father's Promise

Whitney's topics can be shared as a keynote or expanded to fill a two- or three-session conference, retreat or seminar. She is also happy to customize a talk to a specific Biblical character, passage or thematic element.

Topics in Detail

Thirsty? Finding Refreshment With A Cool Glass of Living Water

This teaching focuses on spiritual dehydration and draws a parallel between the physical fatigue and strain caused by dehydration and our spiritual stamina when we are deprived of Christ's Living Water. This talk will help women identify and long for the benefits of a regular encounter with the Living Water. The Scripture focus is on the story of the Woman at the Well.

Declaration of Dependence: Helping Women Wage War Against Culture

This series cautions women of the worldly, non-biblical cultural influence of what a woman ought to be. This talk asks women to note the battle that Satan is waging for their hearts and homes using devastating weapons of mass destruction.

It's Your Serve: Finding Identity in Serving Others

This talk challenges women to serve with a heart of worship and move beyond mere obligatory service and drudgery to engage in life-changing service to one another. The Scripture focus obviously is on Mary and her sister Martha.

Who's Your Daddy? Claiming Your Covenant Father's Promise

This series introduces women to the person of Yahweh and encourages a more intimate, all-encompassing relationship with our Creator and Friend. The main Biblical character focus is on Moses.

In her own words

"I don't teach because I have a lot of answers; I teach because I have a lot of questions."

Ask Whitney Capps why she loves to speak and that's the answer you'll get. No pretense. No pride. No posturing. Whitney teaches because she loves to shatter the perception that to study the Scriptures one must be a scholar or a saint.

"I'm neither. And yet in His infinite grace when I study the word, the Author Himself condescends to explain it to me! How can I not share with others what I've learned?"

What Others are Saying about Whitney . . .

"Whitney has always been comfortable in front of people. She innately connects with an audience, drawing them into a personal conversation."

Dr. Alan Posey, Senior Pastor
Crosspointe Church, Oxford, GA

"Whitney has a freshness and youthfulness that makes you think she's your peer. The truth is spiritually she is wise beyond her years and works faithfully to make a positive difference for the Kingdom."

Kelly Greer
Publisher, Gwinnett Magazine
